

Pastoral Notes

“When The Saints Go Marching Out” - Romans 16:7-12.

Do you ever think of yourself as a Saint? If you believe in Jesus and seek to live for him, God considers you that.

We were born in sin and though no longer slaves to it, we are still under its influence. Stop saying “a saint I ain’t”. Speak words of positive power because you are spiritually blind, lame and deaf. The best story to tell them is your story of how Jesus saved a wretch like you. We must Tell them, Serve them, Teach them and Invite them to Jesus and our fellowship.

Our church has impacted many people but we have more we can do. Let’s be committed to live out the Great Commission and serve others more than we serve ourselves. When

Key Sermonic Points

1. In God’s eyes Christians are Saints
2. Though you’ve died to sin, it has not died to you
3. God witnesses your marching in and marching out
4. We weren’t called in to be walled in

serve the “I AM” God.

Our saintly status is not because of anything that we have done, but because of everything that God has done through Christ who lives in us through the Holy Spirit. But understand that if we are to be a “Church without Walls”, we must march out of the church and be a blessing to people in our community.

We must preach the gospel in places where there are no pulpits or pews to people who we go marching out, it will help ensure that we are “in that number” of the Saints who will go marching into Heaven.

Nuggets:

- Christians are not just ‘ordinary people’. We are special to God and are called to be his agents on earth to tell the good news of Jesus.
- Don’t let counterfeit, hypocritical, judgmental church folk put you on a guilt trip about your past and cause you to be unsure of your present.
- God witnesses everything that we do and the things we don’t do that we should.
- We must GROW (our walk), KNOW (whose we are) & SOW (seeds of the Gospel).

“Life is not a contest of what saint or church can do the most or the best. It is a process of us marching in to hear God then marching out to serve him”
