

Pastoral Notes

“I Luh God”- 1John 2:12-17.

Jesus demonstrated his love for us when he went to Calvary’s cross. But how often do we prove our love for God? We say we love God, but often seek him more out of our need, than out of our agape love.

Mature Christians, & those who are yet babes in Christ, must get to the families the deep love we have for our God.

God’s word is inalterable, incorruptible and infallible. When we live by that Word, we show our love for God and our disdain for the devil. This world lives on delusions and fantasies but God lives on truth and love. Things of the world are not always as they appear, but God is point where we know we love god and show we love God. And when others don’t like it, we simply ask “what’s wrong with you”.

Adults must model the behavior we want from our kids. Our walk must line up with our talk; our deeds must meet folks needs; and our voices must line up with our choices. By having a God honoring lifestyle, we show our the same yesterday, today and forever.

Nuggets:

- There is nothing wrong with being sharp, fly, and clean on the outside. Just make sure you are also sharp, fly and clean on the inside.
- Things of the world will TRICK you. But the things of God will TREAT you
- The methods we use to reach our young people must change over time. The message, however, must stay the same.
- We can’t hide anything from God. No matter how many doors you close, lights you turn off or how many words you whisper, God sees and hears you.
- Everything in this world will pass away but the things of God are eternal
- Everyone will spend eternity somewhere. Where will you spend yours?

“ It’s not that you can’t love anything in the world, but you certainly can’t love everything. Whatever things you love, however, you must not love them more than you love God.”
